

The regions with the highest telework rates tend to be capital regions (or surrounding them)

Share of population working from home at least some of the time, by region

